Production notes

These cards are designed with in-house printing in mind, where you can print them and then cut apart with your paper-cutter or take to Kinkos or similar shop to have them cut them apart for you.

That is why you have either a plain background or the white border so if the cutting is a little off, you'll be OK.

However, if you get them printed at an online printing service such as Overnight Prints, (www.overnightprints.com) run the background color all the way to the edge of this template for a full-bleed, then save as a jpg at 300dpi and it will be ready to upload to them.
