

ALL WILL BE WELL,
ALL WILL BE WELL,
ALL MANNER OF THINGS
WILL BE WELL.

- JULIAN OF NORWICH -

ALL WILL BE WELL,
ALL WILL BE WELL,
ALL MANNER OF THINGS
WILL BE WELL.

The background of the image is a dark, moody photograph of several pink roses. The roses are in various stages of bloom, with some showing deep pink and others lighter, almost white, petals. The leaves are dark green and glossy. The overall lighting is low, creating a somber and intimate atmosphere. The text is overlaid on a semi-transparent dark band across the center of the image.

*All will be well,
All Will Be well,
All manner of things
will be Well.*

On the other side are words from a woman who lived in the 14th century during the time of the Black Plague - Julian of Norwich - here is the entire passage.

And thus, in my folly, afore this time often I wondered why, by the great foreseeing wisdom of God, the beginning of sin was not stopped; for then, methought, all should have been well....

But Jesus, who in this Vision informed me of all that is needful to me, answered by this word and said, Sin is unavoidable, but all shall be well, and all shall be well, andvall manner of things shall be well.

For if we never fell, we should not know how feeble and how wretched we are of our self, and also we should not fully know that marvelous love of our Maker.

The fullness of Joy is to behold God in everything.
God is all that is good, in my sight, and the goodness that everything has is his.If there be anywhere on earth [where] a lover of God is always kept safe from falling, I know nothing of it, for it was not shown me.

But this was shown: that in falling and rising again we are always kept in the same precious love. He did not say, you will never have a rough passage, you will never be over-strained, you will never feel uncomfortable, but he did say you will never be overcome.
